Mr. Charles Briggs
Chief
Office of Legislative Liaison
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Chuck:

I appreciate your assistance, and that of  in providing the Committee with a list of the contents of Monitoring Notebooks kept by ACIS. Much of the material in those notebooks goes to the heart of the issues associated with the U.S. ability to monitor/verify future arms control agreements.

25X1

As you are aware, the Committee is focusing on the development of an intelligence strategy, and a part of that effort is related to arms control. In particular, the staff is looking at intelligence support for the NST talks, and is now reviewing some of the substantive issues associated with those talks. A number of the items in the ACIS Monitoring Notebooks address our current concerns directly. I would like a limited number of the staff responsible for this subject to review these materials and that the Committee be provided updates concerning new entries made to the notebooks.

Could the following items be made available on a timely basis?
